WHAT WILL BE COVERED:

Underpinned by the prolonged US-China trade tensions and ravaged by the global COVID pandemic, the global trade landscape has been topsy-turvy and challenging for governments, international bodies such as the World Trade Organization (WTO), World Customs Organization (WCO) and businesses alike. Previously held norms and practices to conduct global trade have been upended, with the continued relevance of the current global trade policies and set-ups whether in the public or private sector called into question. More than ever before, it is critical for global trade and customs professionals to go beyond the global trade headlines, really understand the technicalities involved and practically apply them in the day-to-day work.

Come join with our esteemed speakers from Ministry of Trade and Industry of Singapore and World Customs Organization as they seek to give a broad view as to where are the areas that global trade and customs professionals should focus on, how to stay relevant going forward such as through upskilling with the WCO Academy and add value to their respective organizations.
